550,000 Eligible Albertans To Receive Citizens Royalty Dividend

The first Oil and Gas Citizens Royalty Dividend, of $20 will become available to aproximately 550,000 eligible Albertans, starting Sept. 1, the Hon. E. W. Hinman, provincial treasurer, announced Monday. Notices to every householder in Alberta are being mailed this week, informing them of the procedures necessary to obtain their dividend.

Dividends are payable from an $11,000,000 fund set up under the Oil and Gas Royalties Dividend Act, representing one-third of the net royalties from oil and gas produced from provincial lands in the previous fiscal year. The act was designed to enable citizens to participate directly in benefits accruing from oil and gas development of the province.

The dividends are payable at any Treasury Branch or branch of any chartered bank in Alberta to those with the following qualifications:

—are Canadian citizens or British subjects.

—will be of the full age of 21 years on or before the 31st day of December, 1957.

—are residents of Alberta.

—have resided in Alberta for the immediate preceding two years and a total of not less than ten years.

Residence in Alberta is defined at "maintaining in Alberta a place of abode to which a person returns daily except for casual absences not in excess of 90 consecutive days."

Signing of a declaration form at the place of payment is all the requirement necessary to obtain the dividend. It is pointed out it is a criminal offense to make a false declaration.

Treasury officials said there would be no payment of the 1957 dividend after December 31, 1957.

Hall To Become Town Project?

LAC LA BICHE— At a public meeting in Memorial hall a decision was made to ask the town council to take over the Memorial hall.

The hall has been owned and operated by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, but as extensive repairs and installations are necessary, the Legion has sought to turn the hall over to either a community league or the town for the responsibility of the whole community.

At the meeting a committee was named to interview the town council about taking over ownership of the hall. The argument was put forth by one member that the hall had an important place in a community as large as Lac la Biche, and that the townspeople must accept the responsibility of putting it in usebale condition. In his opinion the soundest method of handling the problem was to turn it over to the town. A vote revealed that this opinion was held by the majority of those present.

Jack Williams, secretary of the Legion, said that an estimated $10,000 would be required to put the hall in operation—this amount would provide only the bare necessities, a new floor, plumbing, new wiring and a new heating system. The building was said to be well built and to have a good foundation.

The committee of W. J. Chester, E. Shanks and Jack Williams, is to meet with town council at an early date. If the proposal meets with favor from the town fathers, it is hoped that steps may be taken soon to finance the required improvements.

From Scratch

A new man was brought into battalion headquarters office by the sergeant-major. "Here's a new man, sir," said the sergeant to the commanding officer.

"Fine," said the commanding officer, "what can he do?"

"Nothing," replied the sergeant.

"Good, then we don't have to break him in."

Your agricultural fair is coming up soon and undoubtedly you're planning to exhibit something. It's everybody's responsibility to contribute to the success of their fair. One of the best ways is exhibiting and attending.

Helen Moseson, clothing specialist, has some observations to make on the subject. A clean, well-pressed handicraft article draws admiring glances from the public and judges are no exception. Still many articles are entered improperly pressed or have stains or smudges on them. By carefully washing, blocking and pressing woollens, addtional points can be easily made. A light touch administered to woollens during pressing will prevent a squashed effect. Quite a lot of work is often needed to finish an embroidered article and consequently handling may have soiled it. In that case all it needs is careful laundering and a neat press job from the reverse side, which makes the design stand out better.

Practical, neat, clean handicrafts are worth entering. They make attractive exhibits of which the owner can feel justly proud.

See you at the fair!

Remember, safety makes sense. It becomes second nature to children when parents constantly set the example. It pays to think and practise safety at all times.

Kingston Church Athletic League Gives Advice On Juvenile Problem

By H. D. CARRIGAN

Moved by a recent Edmonton Sun story on the rising incidence of juvenile crime in Alberta, the Kingston Church Athletic league has offered to aid and advise Edmonton church and recreation groups in a campaign to cut down delinquency here.

Harold H. Harvey, president of the six-year-old Kingston group, says the combined efforts of all churches—Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—in the Ontario city have practically eliminated delinquency among more than 1100 children participating in a year-round program of healthy sports.

"In the past year we had 70 boys and girls bowling teams, 23 Peewee and Minor Bantam hockey and 45 girls and boys softball and hardball teams," Mr. Harver informs the Sun.

"All churches sponsor teams—27 churches in all. There is no commercialization. The only name on the uniform is the church name," Mr. Harvey added.

The Kingston Church Athletic League was originally founded to encourage greater church attendance among young folks. It is open to all races and all creeds and rules are few. But there is one rule which must be followed—each participating juvenile must mark up 80 percent attendance at church in order to qualify for the teams.

"We have a check-up every six months and at the last check in January, when every clergyman signed attendance cards, 96% of our juveniles had better than 80% attendance and the remaining few were very close," the president states.

Cost of operating the Church Athletic League is about $5,000 a year including a stipend of $1,200 paid to the secretary. Balance of the expenditure goes for rink time, ice timekeepers, referees and incidental expences.

Mr. Harvey says that at the end of each hockey and bowling season the League sends a team representing all participating churches to Peterborough or Goderich for tournament play. Last year Bantam and Juvenile hockey teams also played in the finals at Kitchener. "The captain of the Bantams could hardly skate the first year in Church League," he points out.

WIDE SUPPORT

City-wide support for this Kingston enterprise, which aims to "supplement the work of the Home, Church and School", is indicative of the marvelous success it has registered since inception. Arthur Davies, owner of the Kingston Whig-Standard, co-operates in the news field, and ample free radio and television coverage ensures continuous public interest in the League, the children it serves and their parents.

Practically all aid is on a voluntary basis, and time is donated by bowling alleys, curling clubs, the YMCA and Kingston City fathers on rinks and diamonds. "Our primary problem is to ensure continuity in the years to come and this can be done only by interested people," Mr. Harvey states. "We feel that if we can encourage the children to go to church, the parents will almost certainly follow."

"The Church Athletic League has never heard of one single case of delinquency in our group of children," the President declares.

Financing is carried out by donations. "The cost of keeping a juvenile out of trouble and in wholesome activities is about $3.50 a year."

District Agriculturist Notes

By J. S. LORE

It is my opinion that hog pastures for market hogs in this district is over-rated. As I see it, the greatest value of a pasture is to the sow, and is an essential part to her welfare. A pasture for sows provides cheap feed and also plenty of exercise, and exercise is essential to produce a strong, healthy litter. For young pigs, however, pastures are not necessary and if fed a balanced ration could be done away with altogether.

It is argued that pasture is cheap feed and that you don't have to feed them much grain when they are on pasture. This argument is true but a small pig's digestive system cannot handle the large amount of fibre he takes into his digestive system in the form of "grass".

From my observations in this district you get a stunted pig from turning them onto pasture while too young. And while you save some grain while they are on pasture, you feed a whole lot more later on because of the extra 4 to 8 weeks they take to reach market weight.

If you are dead bent on using pasture, wait until the pig is 75 lbs. in weight before putting him on and then take him off again at 140 lbs.

Another disadvantage of pastures is the disease factor. Diseases are easier to control if the pigs are raised on a clean cement floor as it can be disinfected after every batch has left. It takes a year or two to eliminate disease in a cultivated pasture, and a bush pasture is impossible to control disease in.

Pigs on pasture when it is wet, track a lot of mud into their feed troughs with a result that they eat just about as much dirt as grain and that certainly does not do them any good.

I think it is really good business to keep the hogs on a floor during wet weather. A small hog enterprise probably won't warrant much expenditure for building to feed hogs in, but if you are marketing upwards of 100 hogs per year, I think it would be worthwhile to consider building a feeding shed with cement floor.

THE Homemaker

By Doris Montalbetti

Have you or your daughter come to the stage where you're wondering what to do now? That is, now that she is finished school and ready to get out on her own?

Well, if you haven't considered the schools of Agriculture and Home Economics, then perhaps you should. Here she can have a thorough training in cooking and sewing and all that goes with proper management and care of a home. It is knowledge that will be useful whatever profession she chooses. The Schools of Agriculture also prepare her for the business world and at the same time provide ways for developing her personality. She can relax and enjoy herself through dramatics, sports and various social activities.

I don't think any girl who has attended them ever regretted it. And the experience and knowledge gained is most valuable.

The girls have to be 16 years old — the school term starts each year late in October and closes early in April. There's no tuition fee and board and room is only $40.00 a month.

All considered there's no better opportunity offered for girls. Write for information to:

The Principal,
School of Agriculture,
Olds, Vermilion, or Fairview.
